BLACK&WHITE 2015

Category Winner: Special Projects

Wilson & Company, Inc., Engineers & Architects

La Tierra Trails

Client/Owner: City of Santa Fe

This project provided an excellent model to approach the planning, management, and implementation of both existing and new open space and recreation areas.

The inclusive planning process engaged many stakeholders with a vested interest in the outcome of the plan, including City, County, and Federal agencies; adjacent landowners; and local stewards. The project took over 1,500 acres of open space that had a long history of illegal camping, trash dumping, firearms use, and off-road vehicle use and turned it into an area in which the local citizens and state could be proud. Since the implementation of the plan, the La Tierra Trails have gained international attention for Santa Fe and the state and has boosted tourist visits for mountain biking.
