April is the kindest month. April gets you out of your head and out working in the garden." Marty Rubin

“Don't judge each day by the harvest you reap but by the seeds that you plant”. Robert Louis Stevenson.

“You can cut all the flowers, but you can’t stop spring from coming” Pablo Neruda

I wanted to keep putting spring quotes, it’s so much fun. One more, Spring unlocks the flowers to plant the laughing soil” Bishop Reginald Heber.

I hope everyone made it though winter well. It was a funny one, I think. It started late and it’s still here, maybe April will stay warm. We have been very busy providing the services and trying to fill our vacant positions. Filling vacancies has been a challenge; however, we have hired some great folks and I look forward to introducing them to you, next newsletter.

I have been talking to folks about reopening and was hoping to open middle of April, but it seems the beginning of May will be best. We will start out with indoor meals, grab and go, return back to the traditional Home Delivered meals, expanded transportation, and eventually In-Home services. We will start indoor meals and the grab-n-go at the Mary Esther Gonzales. Eventually moving to the other centers. We are looking forward to seeing all you smiling faces.

The Healing Power of Pets for Seniors

Pets can play an important role in our lives as we age. As we grow older, knowing that you're loved, or that someone cares about you, isn't necessarily enough, and that need to feel needed—and appreciated for what you do—increases.

There's a strong connection between pets and the elderly. Pets fulfill this need because they depend on their owners for care and attention. In return, the pets offer love and unqualified approval.

Studies have been documented that petting a dog or cat lowers blood pressure in hypertensive patients and that older people show improved alertness when caring for a pet. Pets often seem to be especially valuable for some people experiencing major life chances, such as illness or the loss of a loved one.

Depressions can often be avoided. Pets also encourage their owner to be more physically active by playing with them or taking them on a walk. Pets amuse us, make us laugh and improve our overall morale.

Pet owners tend to remain more interested in events in their community and in their surroundings. They are not as lonely as perhaps they once were. They prevent or reduce absent-mindedness or bewilderment by communicating the sense of time and by maintaining a rhythm of the day. "forget oneself and ones problems" and to "live one's free time in a meaningful and interesting way."

Pets need love, companionship and attention no differently than the rest of us. If you are interested in a furry friend or companion, please consider contacting one of the adoption or fostering agencies below.

She is missed...

Elena Lucero, 96 born in Ojo De La Vaca on May 1, 1925 lifelong resident of Santa Fe, NM until she was called home on March 01, 2022. Elena was a loving mother and grandmother. She liked papitas and tortillas for breakfast.

She loved to cook and made the best tortillas and natillas. She also loved cheeseburgers from McDonald’s. You could always catch her at the bingo halls, she was the bingo queen! She played really good air guitar and loved dancing to Spanish music and Elvis Presley. Elena will be missed dearly by all of her family.

If we had no winter, the spring would not be so pleasant: if we did not sometimes taste of adversity, prosperity would not be so welcome.

Governor signs bill cutting $400 million in taxes

Governor Michelle Lujan Grisham signed a tax bill during the 30-day legislative session that ended in February that includes a provision that will exempt Social Security benefits from taxation for low and middle-income seniors. The passage will herald needed financial relief for many New Mexicans, including grandparents raising grandchildren. The tax package known as House Bill 163, also reduces the gross receipts tax rate for the first time in 40 years and includes tax rebates up to $500, a child tax credit of up to $175 per child, tax exemptions for military veterans and tax credits for hospital nurses who work full time.

Altogether, the tax bill is expected to provide about $400 million of recurring tax relief.

Dear Stan,

I am 64 years old and plan to enroll in Medicare when I turn 65. I was diagnosed with depression and my current employer insurance pays all my medical bills except a small co-pay. Will Medicare cover my depression related prescriptions, treatment, and counseling?

Dear Patrick,

Thank you for your question. If you were diagnosed with depression by an approved medical provider, you will be eligible for mental health care via Medicare.

First, let’s start with Part A which is coverage for in-patient services including hospitalizations. Medicare Part A covers inpatient mental health services that you receive either in a psychiatric hospital or a general hospital. To read more about Medicare Part A in-patient mental health coverage, see the Medicare.gov information here: https://www.medicare.gov/coverage/mental-health-care-inpatient

Medicare Part B covers outpatient mental health services including:

- One depression screening per year. The screening must be done in a primary care doctor’s office or primary care clinic that can provide follow-up treatment and referrals.
- Individual and group psychotherapy with doctors or certain other licensed professionals where you get the services.
- Family counseling if the main purpose is to help with your treatment.
- Testing to find out if you’re getting the services you need and if your current treatment is helping you.

This chart isn’t applicable to Hawaii and Alaska (because they have higher limits). States have flexibility in determining income and resource limits for aged, blind or disabled applying for Medicare Savings Programs. They can disregard or have less restrictive limits for income and resources for these groups. However, they can’t be more restrictive, or have higher limits for these groups when determining eligibility.

End of Life Options NM Begins Services

By Barak Wolff, EOLONM Board of Directors

For the last several years, the Senior Scene has been kind enough to allow me to the opportunity to write about end-of-life issues. It’s been an honor and a pleasure to share what I’ve been learning over the last decade about our right to make our own health decisions, the importance of advance care planning and how, if we choose to, we may be able to influence how our last chapter ends. There are no guarantees, but there is now a new nonprofit organization here in NM whose mission is to provide information and support for all end-of-life options, including medical aid in dying.

End of Life Options New Mexico (EOLONM), was established to assist with the implementation of NM’s new medical aid in dying law and other issues relating to end of life. It provides resources and guidance about how the law works, arranges training for clinicians in the practice of medical aid in dying, and supports trained volunteers to assist patients and families understand their options and make good end-of-life decisions.

As a refresher, the Elizabeth Whitefield End-of-Life Options Act which passed last year authorized medical aid in dying, a practice that allows a qualified adult to request medications from a willing provider that they can take when and if they choose, to achieve a peaceful death.

To qualify for medical aid in dying a patient must have a terminal diagnosis of six months or less, must have mental capacity to be able to make informed healthcare decisions, and must be able to self-administer the medication. Medical aid in dying is entirely voluntary for all parties...no patients, no facilities or clinical providers have to participate. Our new law provides safeguards and protections for everyone involved—patients, families, clinical providers and healthcare institutions.

To learn more about EOLONM or to request assistance or a speaker, visit our website: https://endolifeoptionsnm.org.. send an email to info@endolifeoptions.org or call and leave a message at (505) 393-1321.
